

Donald N. Roberson, Jr.

Palacký University Olomouc

A native of Nashville, Georgia, USA. When he was young man was very active with American sports such as American football, baseball, basketball, and golf. He attended University of Georgia and started to work with a non-profit student Christian organization (CRU). Interestingly, this work led him to jobs in unique places such as California, Florida, Arkansas, amid former Yugoslavia. Roberson switched careers to education and returned at the University for Masters and PhD. He has been at the Faculty of Physical Culture, Palacký University Olomouc for twelve years. His research interests are in the broad area of recreation and learning that takes place during free time.

Topic for the 13th International Teaching Week:

The School of Travel - Live Your Dreams in a Frantic and Postmodern World