

Chalak Majidi

Kharazmi University, IRAN

Chalak is an Assistant Professor at Department of Sport Management of Kharazmi University.

His research interests include the promotion of society well-being by adventure sports activities, especially the use of sports for positive social change through adventure sports, specifically educational and social. He also loves participating in and researching nature-based sport activities.

Topic for the 14th International Teaching Week:

Adventure Sport Activities Participation Model