

Christiane Reuter

Julius-Maximilians-University
Würzburg
GERMANY

Christiane Reuter is a lecturer in Julius-Maximilians-University Würzburg (JMU) in Germany. She works in the faculty of Human Sciences at the chair of education for people with developmental and intellectual disabilities. Her main interests are in supporting the participation of people with disabilities in education and especially sports, school development and adapted physical activity. She worked at the institute for sport science for 3 years and as a teacher for children with special education needs for 5 years before she took the job as a lecturer in 2015. In her leisure time she likes to play (beach-)volleyball, exercise yoga, spend time with her husband and three sons in house, garden and nature. She has been the trainer of an inclusive youth-volleyball team for the past year.

My Topics for the 24th International Teaching Week:

- 1) Sports and Exercise for People with Autism Spectrum Disorder